THE following were elected officers of the Lowndesville Grangs on the sentence of the Lowndesville murderers. 20th inst: I am very respectfully, &c., HUGH WILSON. JUDGE COOKE'S REPLY.

MILLER'S HOTEL, Abbeville, January 29, 1877. }
Huan Wilson, Esq.—Dear Sir: In my judgment the Lowndesville prisoners were properly convicted. With an experience of four years upon the Bench, and a practice of fifteen years at the Bar, Thave never heard evidence more conneing to my mind, of a formed design to kill and murder. The prisoners had fair trial before a jury of four whites and eight colored. My duty has been discharged. The prisoners have been sentenced to be hung on the 20th of April

From the above our readers may learn all that we know of the prisoners since their conviction, and of their chances of escaping the doom which seems to be awaiting them. From present indications we believe there is little probability of the sentence of any one of them being commuted.
